

MAY SETTLE AS DELIVERY END

Striking Teamsters Have Appointed Committee To Consult With Employers.

WILL ASK FOR MANY CONVICTIONS

It Is Alleged That The Federal Court Injunctions Have Been Violated By The Strikers--New Indictments Asked.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, Ill., June 3.—The settlement of the department-store drivers' strike is believed to be near at hand and is independent of the other striking teamsters. A committee of five labor leaders appointed by the teamsters' joint council today met with Edward Hillman in an effort to arrange a conference with the committee of State street store managers. The labor committee is fully empowered to effect a settlement without referring the matter back to the joint council. A further conference was held this afternoon.

Violate Injunction
The charges of wholesale violations of the federal strike injunctions in addition to fifty-seven cases now before Judge Kohlsaat will be made on Monday by Attorney Mayer for the Employers and Express companies. It is said the new affidavits include the names of several labor leaders and that Mayer will demand sentences for the violators.

Charge a Wagon
A mob of five hundred attacked a wagon of the Bartlett Manufacturing company driven by a non-union driver at Ashland avenue at noon. Three policemen guarding the wagon drew their revolvers and charged the crowd. Several shots were fired. Thomas Gleason and Daniel Tyne were arrested.

Considers Proposition
It was following a conference between team owners and teamsters in Mayor Dunne's office, the Teamsters' joint council decided to refer the question of making deliveries to strike-bound houses to the Truck Drivers' union.

A special meeting of that union to vote on the question will be held Tuesday night, and until that time the matter will stand as it is now. In the meantime the team owners are hesitating about forcing the deliveries and will not wait until the union acts in the matter.

The conference in the mayor's office was harmonious.

FORTUNES VANQUISH ON COTTON EXCHANGE

Telegrapher's Error Causes Prices to Advance on New Orleans Record, and Great Losses Are Recorded.

New Orleans, La., June 3.—Because of a telegraphic error bulls were slaughtered and fortunes were swept away at the Cotton-exchange Friday. Prices fell forty points from the highest of the day, or $2 a bale, after the government report had been read. The government estimate of reduction in acreage was 11.4 per cent, or 2.33 per cent less than the eleven average estimates given before. It was 7.03 per cent less than the reduction estimate of the Southern Cotton association, which was 18.43.

The government estimate of crop conditions was 77.2. The Western Union Telegraph company announced this estimate at 75.2. The announcement was posted. Prices shot up from 8.24c to 8.50c for July, or twenty-six points, at one purchase. Then the telegraph company announced an error and the correct conditions were posted as 77.2. Prices then dropped to 8.17c, or thirty-three points.

A number of suits may follow because of this error in so critical a time. The gallery of the exchange was filled with women, members of the families of the bulls and members of the families of the bears. There was no standing room left on the floor of the exchange. The ring was crowded to the last inch. The electric fans buzzed and the linen suits turned moist.

Secretary Hester has made an issue of the blunder in the receiving of the government figures. An old-time operator made the mistake. He defines his mistake by asserting that the pandemonium made it impossible to catch the figures.

President Britton called the exchange to order in the midst of the excitement and in the calm said that the error in sending the wrong figures by the telegraph company was an unmitigated crime. "As president of this exchange," he said, "I assure you I and the directors will do all we can to ferret out and punish the perpetrators."

One case was reported wherein an operator lost $15,000 in exactly twenty-five seconds because of the error.

NORWEGIANS WANT SEPARATE STATE

Country Is Determined to Have Consular System Apart From That of Sweden and Republic May Result.

Christiania, June 3.—Premier Michelsen at Friday's session of the storting gave the members an account of the occurrences at the council of state over which King Oscar presided at Stockholm May 27, when the king vetoed the measure providing for separate consular systems for Sweden and Norway. The statement, however, was merely a repetition of the facts already known and the matter was referred to the special committee which is dealing with the question. In this connection it is said Norway is preparing for the eventuality of war. Her leading officials scoff at the idea that she will be gobbled up by some great power if she breaks the union with Sweden.

Norway is determined to have her own separate consular system, come what may. It is even intimated that the government is prepared for independence in all things. A new kingdom may be formed, but there are some who say a new republic is more likely to be Norway's fate.

One thing is certain, that the government has taken precaution to repulse any attack that may be made by land or sea. Red flags have been placed in the hands of the rectors of churches to be displayed in the event of danger. This signal will be emphasized by the ringing of church bells. Norway's field artillery is among the best in the world. The navy is weak in big ships, but the inlet can be easily defended by mines. The entrances by sea to Christiania, Christiansand, Bergen and Trondhjem are powerfully fortified.

It is rumored that the premier has secured two new battleships. All the forts in the kingdom are fully manned and target practice is being carried on with enormous howitzers.

Behind the Crown Prince and his bride rode butchers, postmen, and deputations from other trades and occupations, according to immemorial custom. Outside of the Longworth social circle gossips have said that Mrs. Longworth refused to change her plans because her son's suit for Miss Roosevelt's hand was rejected, while others say that her departure means that her son will have a better opportunity of renewing his suit while acting as host in conjunction with his sister.

WAR PARTY IS YET IN POWER

Dove Of Peace Is Not Liable To Settle Down Quietly To Roost Soon.

RATHER FIGHT THAN COMPENSATE

Nebogatoff's Surrender Was Disgraceful--His Ships Were in Good Condition, with Plenty Of Ammunition.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Manila, June 3.—Rear Admiral Enquist, commander of a heavy squadron of the Russian fleet, arrived here at nine tonight aboard his flagship, the protected cruiser Aurora and accompanied by the cruisers Eleg and Jemthug. Admiral Train encountered the Russian cruisers while cruising off the shore near Lingaon gulf. He accompanied them to Manila. All are more or less damaged. The cruisers will have to leave within 24 hours or be interned until the close of the war.

Wants War
St. Petersburg, June 3.—It is stated on high authority a majority of the war council holds the opinion it is better to spend millions to keep the war rather than to pay an indemnity which it is believed Japan will be sure to demand as the price of peace. Public opinion generally favors a cessation of hostilities, but the chances of peace are small.

London, June 3.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph sends interesting additional details of the naval battle, received from Moji, Sasebo, and other points.

It is stated that when Rear Admiral Nebogatoff surrendered the Russians hoisted red flags on their topmasts, with Russian flags below them. The crews were drawn up in parade order on the decks, and some of the sailors were waving white flags. The whole affair, the dispatch says, was a "contemptible spectacle."

The correspondent who witnessed the battle says that toward sunset, when the fighting was most fierce, there were some sickening sights.

The Sasebo correspondent saw exhausted, fugitive sailors striking on places beneath high cliffs in remote and deserted parts where there were no roads. All of them were thirsty, hungry and overwrought.

Two Japanese cruisers alone saved 600 Russians.

Rojevsky's Fatal Swerve.
The same correspondent says that when the Japanese boarded the torpedo boat destroyer Bedovi, after completely disabling her, Admiral Rojevsky was the last man to be discovered. He was hiding at the bottom of the destroyer and was bleeding freely from many wounds.

The correspondent goes on to say: "It is understood that Admiral Nebogatoff, who is grateful for the kind treatment given him by order of the commander, will be allowed to proceed home within a few days. His surrender was disgraceful and unaccountable. An examination of his ships shows that, though the guns were rusty and the bottoms of the vessels were covered with seaweed, there was no lack of fighting resources. There were heaps of ammunition, and no trace of damage by the Japanese shells."

Another correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the captain of the armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi, when interviewed, admitted the foolishness of trying to force the Tsu straits. He said:

Compliments the Enemy.

"The Japanese navy is the finest in the world. The crews were so cool and brave as to appear almost like demons and not humans."

The crew of the cruiser Ural describe how three successive twelve-inch shells completely disabled the vessel and sent her to bottom inside of forty minutes. All stories, the Telegraph's correspondents say, contrast the accuracy of the Japanese gunnery with the wild firing of the Russians, who were outfought and outmaneuvered at all points. It is stated that Admiral Togo on the night before the battle, when he knew from his scouts that the Russians would be off Tsu Island the following morning, and knowing that all his preparations were complete, slept soundly.

Rojevsky's Fatal Swerve.

The Tokio correspondent of the daily Mail sends the following: "The commander of the Japanese destroyer Murasamo, describing the attack on the Suvaroff, states that he approached within 100 yards of the battleship and discharged an eighteen-inch Whitehead torpedo. Other Japanese ships concentrated their fire on her and the crew clustered under her masts. As the Suvaroff was gradually sinking the Murasamo approached closer and discharged another torpedo, which struck her abaft her engine room."

"The battleship's stern rose, hung in the air for a moment, and then disappeared. Owing to a heavy sea during the earlier part of the engagement the hulls of the Russians' ships were disclosed below the water line, presenting a good target, and enabling the Japanese guns to usurp the functions of torpedoes."

To plan a store-advertising campaign requires some imagination as well as judgment.

Every such campaign should include the special stroke of enterprise when least expected

either by competitors or patrons; the "broadside" of publicity at seasons when lethargy

usually prevails. : : : *

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"Smile, and the world smiles with you,

"Knock, and you go alone;

For the cheerful grin

Will let you in

Where the kisser is never known.

Growl and the way looks dreary,

Laugh, and the path is bright,

For a welcome smile

Brings sunshine, while

A frown shuts out the light.

Sing, and the world's harmonious,

Grumble, and things go wrong,

And all the time

You are out of rhyme

With the busy, bustling throng.

Kick, and there's trouble brewing,

Whistle, and life is gay.

And the world's in tune

Like a day in June

And the clouds all melt away."

This choice sentiment appears in the June number of "Suggestion," a magazine published in Chicago and devoted to the new psychology.

Every line of the little poem rings

with the gladness of a June morning.

Cut it out and paste it in your hat,

and when inclined to "knock,"

be reminded that the "knocker goes alone."

Some one has said that "life is a grave reality" and so it is, but not necessarily a graveyard.

A little boy wanted to go to the circus but his mother didn't believe in sawdust performances so she consoled him by saying, "No, but if you are good I will take you to the cemetery to visit your grandmother's grave."

The little lad had been a great lover of his grandmother and the kindly smile and fairy tales which warmed

his heart and fired imagination, were pleasant memories of the old room in which he had always found a haven

of rest and happiness, but the cemetery was a different proposition.

He had visited the grave, but no voice came back to cheer him and he preferred the associations of active every-day life, and so his mother was a little shocked when he said:

"If grandmother was here she would rather go to the circus than the cemetery, because she told me

all about the circus that came to town

when she was a little girl, but she ations come and go, sharing alike in its benefits yet not depleting its resources.

The first flush of a June morning

presents a landscape, not on a two-

by-four canvas which might sell for a fabulous price, but as far as the eye can reach in all directions. This great picture belongs to the human family, and as the sun rolls up and every dew drop sparkles like a diamond, the child looks out upon the scene and laughs with glee, because

a new day is born, and he is a part of it, in harmony with the picture

and the anthem which proclaims it from every tree top.

This picture presents a constantly changing panorama and when the curtain drops, a vast canopy of blue, dotted with stars so far away that the eye may trace them from any viewpoint, shuts out the scene, while the child, with a song in his heart, whispers a happy good night.

The picture will be his again tomorrow and for all the tomorrows yet to come, and the same happy smile will greet the day just so long as the heart is in harmony with the picture, and that should be, and may be,

until the end of the race.

The art of being young and growing young as age advances is receiving more or less attention just now, and the age limit is the subject of more discussion than at any previous time in history.

While it is true that the powers of endurance may not stand the test of requirement in many departments of manual toil, it is also true that the mind and heart may live in the sunshine of perpetual youth down to the verge of time, and while the voice

may not be able to reproduce the songs of childhood, the soul responds

in richer volume.

The little magazine "Suggestion,"

referred to in the opening paragraph,

is engaged in a philanthropic mission.

It should be read in every home where people think.

It deals with the power of the mind

and advocates the value of suggestion and its influence over the ill of both mind and body.

There is an old Bible saying which reads something like this: "As a man

thinketh in his heart, so is he." It was written a long time ago, yet the lapse of time has not destroyed its significance.

That the mind has a wonderful influence over the body is not a debatable question.

A man can have any kind of a disease which he chooses to cultivate if he goes at it persistently and he can be driven to bed in a day's time by a little good natured assistance on the part of his friends.

A group of young men spent the evening together. Half a dozen of them agreed to test the power of suggestion, and the next morning as one of them met a friend on his way to business he said to him:

"Why, John, what's the matter,

look as though you'd just got out of the hospital."

There was nothing the matter with

John, and he said, "Never felt better in my life." In the next block he met another friend and he was shocked to find him looking so thin and worn out.

By the time he had talked with the last of the half dozen, his face was white, his step unsteady and he went home and was in bed for a week.

A great many people manage to worry themselves sick without the aid of friends, and the mind is responsible for the worry. "Suggestion" is a mind educator. It is more than that for it stimulates to action.

One dollar a year invested in the magazine is better than $10 invested in pills and powders. The sentiment which runs through the little poem sparkles on every page and the wholesome doctrine is taught that health and happiness go hand in hand and both are a common inheritance.

THE TENT AND CONSUMPTION.

The people of Wisconsin are interested in health resorts, and a camp

in the northern pine woods will soon be established for the care of people who are suffering from tubercular diseases.

Other states have tested the benefits of outdoor life for this class of diseases, and the following sketch

by Edwin L. Sabin in the June "Pilgrim" will be read with interest. The camp in a western state:

"Do health farms—do the patients who come here get well?"

"According to the last report tabulated of this farm in particular, out of sixty-one patients of over thirty days'

residence (all but six being tuberculosis patients) three had died (one from an extraneous malady), seven

had been discharged unimproved,

thirty-four had been discharged as well enough to leave, the majority of them going to work, and the remainder still at the farm were marked

"greatly improved."

"Then consumption can be cured?"

The doctor smiled.

"Well," he drawled, "I had tuberculosis—a pronounced case. I haven't had a symptom for two years. Dr. (his colleague) had hemorrhages. Last summer he went out and pitched hay on a ranch, and it never feazed him. Still, say, as some claim, that tuberculosis can not be cured entirely—suppose that this open-air treatment only lengthens a patient's life—what's the difference?

He feels all right, he looks all right,

and if he can live for twenty-five or thirty years more, and be a wage-earner, and do good in the world, it's just about the same as though he was cured

for sure, isn't it?"

The doctor was called, and strode away.

"It must be pretty fine to live out here in the open air and sunshine," I said to Dick, basking before his tent.

"It's all right," he admitted, "except when it storms, and then it's something fierce. We can't sit out of doors, and we haven't any stoves."

"What do you do?" I asked.

"Oh, the doctor comes around, and puts us to bed," he said glumly. "And we stay there until the weather clears

up again."

"Don't you ever catch cold?" I asked.

"Nope; the only time I've caught

cold was once when I went into town,

and slept in a room for a night."

It's a clever scheme connected by somebody to ask every property owner in a block to place a valuation on his neighbor's property and then tell him that the information will be treated as confidential. This may reduce the responsibility of the assessor, but it won't contribute to the happiness of the taxpayer, unless he checkmates

the scheme by conferring with his neighbors before reporting.

The governor threatens an extra session if the legislature fails to round things up to suit him. He proposes not only to lead the horse to water,

but also to make him drink, whether he will or no. All he lacks is a crown and a new stomach to make him a first class monarch.

The editor of Collier's and Tom

Lawson have made up. From calling each other liars they are now in tears

and the same "trundle" bed is big enough for the pair. Such is life in a great city.

With an extra session in sight

Madison will be able to present a continuous vaudeville.

The guardian angel continues to hover over the state and the people may shirk all responsibility. What can't be accomplished in one session

may be worked out in two if the wardrobe holds out.

Physical exercise develops muscle and mental activity enlarges the mind. It is possible to be a Sandow and need a guardian.

Some people are so opinionated that they imagine the old clock of time will stop when they cease to tick, but it won't.

NEED MONEY TO INSURE SUCCESS

MASS MEETING LAST NIGHT WAS WELL ATTENDED.

MORE MUSIC TO BE HIRED

Civic Societies and Lodges To Be Asked to Take Part—Changes in Committees.

That Janesville is to have a Fourth of July celebration is an assured fact and the mass-meeting and committee gatherings last night only decided upon certain features of the day's celebration. There was a goodly number of enthusiasts who gathered in the City Hall last night and discussed the ways and means of celebrating the day. F. Wortendyke presided and David Atwood was elected secretary of the meeting. The matter of importance which was decided upon was the hiring of more bands for the day, having a band concert in the evening, vaudeville on the streets in the afternoon and fireworks and colored lights in the evening. The civic parade and the famous Nonesuch Brothers' circus parade having already been decided upon at the previous meeting.

Money Is Needed
Mr. Wortendyke as chairman of the general committee and the finance committee reported that considerable more money must be raised to make the day a success. In fact, but a small portion of the money appropriated to the different committees has as yet been subscribed and the lists must be liberally subscribed to in order to make the day a success. When the question of music came up Mr. M. Bostwick, Jr., chairman of the music committee, reported that he was in communication with seven bands to see whether they were open for engagements and their prices. It was the sense of the meeting that at least four bands be hired for the day, and more if the appropriation would hold out. It was also decided that the question of making the fact understood that the bands might be union or non-union should be made plain.

Changes in Committee
Owing to the fact W. P. Sayles would not be able to act as chairman of the decoration committee Mr. F. Hinterschild was selected as chairman. Clarence Burdick was added to the amusement committee and Joe Murray and G. L. Burdick were added to the civic parade committee. A new committee on rail-ways consisting of T. S. Nolan, chairman, P. J. Mout, H. H. Bliss, Walter Johnson and E. J. Lindsay was appointed. It was also suggested that the decoration committee confer with the electric light company regarding stringing of electric lights over the streets in place of the Chinese lanterns used last year. It was also decided to hold no vaudeville stunts on the streets in the evening, but to make arrangements if possible with Manager Burdick of the West Side theatre for the attractions of his theatre for the afternoon. It was also suggested that the committee consult with Mr. Kline of the Y. M. C. A. and secure the services of some of the Y. M. C. A. athletes for acrobatic sketches.

Invite Societies
The secretary of the meeting was instructed to personally invite the different lodges and societies of the city afternoon parades in preparing floats and other exhibits. It is hoped the G. A. R. will turn out as a post, and that the other societies and lodges will take part in making the day a success. It was suggested that the morning parade be put off until after eleven so that visitors of the morning trains might enjoy it, but it was thought better to have it called for nine-thirty which will mean ten o'clock before it gets started.

Asks Cooperation
Chairman Fish of the civic parade committee has issued a formal call for all merchants and business men who will have floats or exhibits in the morning parade to notify him. He also asks all teamsters and team-owners who will donate their services and that of their teams to notify one of the committee as soon as possible.

The Circus Parade
Chairman George McKee who has charge of the Nonesuch Brothers' circus parade is already making up his list for the afternoon parade and it promises to eclipse any of past years. Mr. McKee is also anxious to have all those who will take part to hand him their names, so he can begin making his definite plans as early as possible. "Colonel" Nonesuch himself will arrive in Janesville the last of next week with several cages of new and rare wild animals and will begin his work of organizing the greatest one-day circus that ever existed.

Will Bring Crowds
Already the announcement that Janesville is to celebrate the Fourth has brought many inquiries from all parts of the country. Everyone who was here last year expects to be present again and lots of people who have heard about the good times to be had in Janesville are planning to come this year. In order to make this a success, however, it is necessary to raise more funds, and the finance committee must have the heavy cooperation of the business men so that they may successfully finance the affair.

Attention, Woodmen

A firm believer in the future of the 'Bullfrog' district from the beginning, he was among the first to invest and acquire properties there, and today is heavily interested in some of the richest mines in the district."

SOCIETY.

Twenty-five couples attended the banquet given by the Rusk Lyceum at the High school last evening. The rooms were attractively decorated in orange and black and the plates were laid on two long and two small tables. Harvey Bailey graced the toastmaster's chair and delivered a very pleasing address of welcome. Remarks were made by A. H. Bartlett and Robert Jensen offered tribute to "The Ladies." Supt. Buell spoke, Lester Strang toasted "The Critics," and Orville Swift delivered "The Prophecy." Jerome Davis bade farewell to the seniors, of whom there are six in the society. The meeting held to elect officers next Thursday will be the last until fall. The banquet last evening was served by the ladies of the Baptist church.

Miss Nettie M. Garlock, daughter of Mrs. S. J. Garlock of this city, was wedded to John D. Jones at Battle Creek, Mich., on Monday evening, at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. William S. Potter. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones are members of the sanitarium staff of nurses, both being graduates of the Missionary Nurses Training school of the class of 1900. They will continue their regular duties at the institution.

A supper will be served Monday evening, June 12, by the members of the Woman's Union Label league who took part in the first entertainment. This banquet will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Moore, 173 Washington street. All members of the league are cordially invited, also the judges and the husbands of all the ladies belonging to the league.

Mrs. Wilson Lane entertained the members of the Ladies' Afternoon Euchre club at the Sinissippi club-house yesterday afternoon and the prize was won by Mrs. W. H. Greenman. The husbands of the members participated in the tempting repast which was served at 6:30.

Invitations were issued today for the Senior Party to be given by the class of 1901 of the Janesville High school at Central hall, Tuesday evening, June 20. Leaver's full orchestra will furnish the music.

The House committee of the Golf club has set Tuesday evening next as the date for the opening entertainment of the season. There will be an event on the links in the afternoon, followed by a supper at the club-house and a musical program and dance. Four pieces of music have been engaged for the dance.

Mrs. A. J. Harris is visiting in Chicago today.

PRESS COMMENT.

El Paso Herald: Of course when you look at it in one way, there is no special use being learned beyond the average run, if the expert can only come to the conclusions that the common herd have done: a Chicago university professor no doubt has trouble persuading the faculty he is something extraordinary, if he does not so behave in an extraordinary thing.

Evansville Review: Janesville is coming in as a close second in the race for an old-fashioned blow-out on the Fourth. Evansville started the boom and she is rapidly outdistancing all neighboring towns as regards attractions for that day. It is a safe proposition to make that Evansville will out-do itself this year in recognizing the nation's birthday.

Green Bay Gazette: Madison may ridicule the idea of a change in capital location but the fact remains that her citizens are using every effort to prevent such a catastrophe to her. The other city candidates for the location are not acting as though they were attempting to play a joke on Madison but rather as though they desired the capital and the probability is that if the people have the chance to vote on the question the contest will be a hot one.

Chicago Chronicle: There is every reason to believe that Charles J. Bonaparte will creditably acquit himself as chief of the navy department. He is an honest man and an able one and those qualities compensate very largely for lack of official experience. Indeed, the very fact that Mr. Bonaparte never has held public office is likely to contribute success, since he will assume his duties untrammelled by any of the obligations or prejudices which are likely to result from such experience.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The people of Baraboo are to enter into a good natured sort of contest for beautiful lawns, flower gardens, back yards and alleys. The offer of $15 in prizes by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cheek of that place, to be given to the parties who accomplish the most effective work along the line, has served to arouse new interest in the matter and it is believed will mark the beginning of an increased pride in civic beauty. This a good sort of enthusiasm to arouse and it should result in much good for the city of Baraboo.

Madison Democrat: Chicago sheets are now regaling sceptic readers with pictures illustrating the naval fight in the Korean straits. Terrible scenes are depicted, great battleships floundering, floating spars sustaining drowning sailors, officers going down dramatically with caps in hand, cannon belching and a pall of rolling, tumbling, smoke half hiding the hideous spectacle. An awful drama is presented; but the whole thing takes on the character of burlesque when it is understood that the drawings are entirely imaginative. It must be a month at least before any photographs that may have been taken during the route of Rojstevsky can reach this country, and, indeed, it is seriously to be doubted if any such pictures whatever were snapped.

Toten Talk.

"It's wonderful the advance that has been made in the manufacture of shoes in the last fifteen years," said a shoeman the other day. "The great demand for well shoes over the Mackay sewed article and the general adoption of the same kind of footwear for all but dress occasions among the women, where formerly they desired the hand turned pedal covering, has shown the great usefulness of the Goodyear sewing machines. These cannot be purchased from the manufacturers but the superiority of the work that is done on them and the rapidity with which soles can be sewed on fully repays for the royalty tax on each pair. One machine will take the place of many workmen and needs but one experienced operator. There is another thing I noticed which seemed more wonderful to me than that—it was the use to which scrap leather is now put. I hunted up the superintendent of the manufactory and just at that time he happened to be engaged in sorting sole skivings. He said they no longer bought whole hides for all sole purposes but secured bottoms cut and baled, which needed but to be trimmed and skived to fit the use to which they would be put. The only purpose for which hides were bought nowadays in his plant was to cut out heel lifts, that is, a lower and upper layer of leather. The other part of the heel they purchased already cut and nailed together and needed but to be fastened on the shoe and trimmed. These heels he said are made from these scraps like you see here. He pointed to a pile of skivings and odds and ends of leather and went on to say that this was sent to a factory where it was ground up, mixed with glue and other substances and a hard sole leather made in a manner similar to that in which heavy paste board is manufactured. Years ago we threw this leather away, used it for fuel, but now it pays us to save it and sell. I wouldn't wonder but that some day, when leather has on its present upward course on the market reached an extremely high point some ingenious man will commence the making of leather from old cast-off shoes gathered by junk men as iron or rags are now."

to us as shall be satisfactory to him and to the board."

The action of the directors is intended to mean that the directors would have the "one-man control" dispensed with, but no one appears to be in a position to tell how this stock is to be purchased or at what figure. Mr. Hyde has had an offer of several million dollars for his holdings.

In the meantime it would appear that neither Alexander, Hyde nor Gage D. Tarbell is to be disturbed as an office-holder.

F. O. Paddock Suggests Commercial Be Made Contract Grade.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 3.—At the first session of the annual convention of the National Grain Dealers' association F. O. Paddock of Toledo suggested that as a preventive of grain corners that the commercial grade of grain should be made, the contract grade. New York, June 3.—By a coalition of the Hyde and Alexander factions in the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance society the report of the Frick investigating committee was rejected, and three of the members of the committee angered by the turn affairs have taken, resigned as officers of the society.

Those directors who resigned were Henry C. Frick, Cornelius N. Bliss and E. H. Harriman. The remaining members of the Frick committee, Melville B. Ingalls and Brayton Ives, both of whom were fiercely attacked by Mr. Hyde during the meeting, are also expected to quit the Equitable directorate.

The meeting was stormy and at times the talk was so plain that it verged on accusations of criminality. Mr. Harriman, in particular, was singled out by Mr. Hyde as the target for attack.

Hyde and Alexander Hit. While the combined Hyde and Alexander forces were able to dispose of the Frick report, because it recommended that the "deferred dividend" system of doing business be abolished, they were compelled to submit to the adoption of resolutions which strip President James W. Alexander of authority and place the chairman of the board of directors in full power over the affairs of the society. James Hazen Hyde also is requested formally by the resolutions to dispose of the stock he controls within the next three months.

The resolutions were adopted by an overwhelming majority, and are embodied in the following statement given out by the directors after final adjournment:

Board's Official Report. "The board, after full discussion and after replies on their own behalf to the committee by President Alexander, Vice President Hyde and Vice President Tarbell, on motion of Mr. Schiff, adopted the following resolutions:

"(1) That a chairman of the board be created with plenary powers over all departments and affairs of the society.

"(2) That a nominating committee consisting of D. O. Mills, John A. Stewart, A. J. Cassatt, T. Jefferson Coolidge, August Belmont, J. B. Forgan and Robert T. Lincoln be requested to report at a meeting of the board, to be called on Wednesday next, a candidate for chairman.

"(3) That at that meeting of the board the executive committee be re-organized and that appropriate amendments to the by-laws should be prepared for submission to that meeting for the purpose of carrying out these resolutions.

Nature, if left alone, will cure for itself; this might have been true at some prehistoric time, but since for ages it has not been left alone, but has been bound down and fettered by the observances and mandates of society, it can no longer care for itself.

At no time does the truth of this appeal to us more strongly than at that period of a woman's life when she is about to become a mother.

Nature must be assisted at this crisis, and for this very contingency

GOOD WEATHER FAVORS TRADE

Labor Troubles Cause Investors
to Be Wary of New Enterprises.

ACTIVITY IN MANUFACTURING

Well-Sustained Demand for the Output of the Factories Adds Steadiness to Prices—Prospects for Crops Are Encouraging.

Chicago, June 3.—The weekly review of Chicago trade published by R. G. Dun & Co. says:

"Business was favorably influenced by more seasonable weather and the distribution of commodities expanded, reflecting a sustained high volume of consumption. The labor troubles continue a cause of disquiet and hinder investment in new enterprises, but other developments have added to confidence in the commercial outlook.

"Manufacturing remains very active in leading lines, and has gathered further strength from the well-maintained demand for future output and steadiness in prices. The wholesale branches found buying better divided in staple needs for both city and interior, the movement being satisfactory for this period in dry goods, clothing, footwear and food products and better than a year ago in sporting goods, automobiles and carriages. Local retail trade made progress, and stocks of light-weight apparel were materially reduced.

Farm Work is Advanced.

"Reports from the farming sections show spring work almost ended, crop prospects advancing, and the demand gaining for necessities and improvement material. Mercantile defaults are seen to be comparatively few, less complaint is heard as to collections generally and money remains ample for ordinary purposes.

"The metal and wood industries exhibit no falling off in the production of finished materials, and prices for northern iron are steadier in anticipation of early revival in the demand. Shipments of mill and furnace product are of record-breaking tonnage. Factory work presents more activity, particularly in farm implements, hardware, special machinery and electric supplies.

"Building material of all kinds remains in widespread request, and receipts of lumber were 46,079,000 feet, against 32,507,000 feet a year ago.

"The markets for hides and leather were fair in volume. Shoe factories obtained additional orders for fall goods, and working forces were increased.

Railroad Earnings.

"Earnings of western railroads again exceeded those of the corresponding week last year, testifying to sustained expansion in the movement of freight. The marketing of grain was 17 per cent over that of a year ago, and the shipments increased 5.9 per cent. Forwarding was heavy in provisions, corn and oats, but slightly lessened in wheat, hides and live stock.

"Board of trade operations largely centered in the winding up of the May options in the two prominent cereals. Cash dealings were limited owing to the high prices which prevailed, and growers secured their profits. Export demand was poor in all the breadstuffs, current quotations being a discouragement. Grain receipts, 3,546,186 bushels, compared with 3,063,133 bushels a year ago, and the shipments were 2,620,115 bushels, against 2,479,304 bushels.

"Compared with the closings of a week ago values advanced in oats 1 1/2 cents a bushel, in wheat 1 cent, ribs 2 1/2 cents, pork 1 1/2 cents and lard 15 cents, and declined in corn 10 cents, cattle 5 cents, sheep 10 cents and hogs 15 cents.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number thirteen, against twenty-six last week and twenty-three a year ago."

WAS ONLY FORCE OF HABIT

Fire Commissioner Was Accustomed to Quenching Flames Whenever He Saw Them.

Of the ex-fire commissioner, Thomas Sturgis, of New York, a story has been recently circulating, relates the Tribune.

This story, which is not sworn to, is to the effect that Mr. Sturgis, a few days after his appointment, boarded a train and sat down beside a fat man in the smoking car.

The fat man took a cigar from his pocket and put it in his mouth. Then he struck a match, but before he could make use of it Mr. Sturgis blew it out.

The fat man glared at the commissioner. But he said nothing, for he thought that perhaps the match had been blown out by accident. He lighted another match, regarding his companion closely as he did so. This time there could be no mistake. Mr. Sturgis leaned over, distended his cheeks, and—puff!—the match was out.

"By jingo!" said the fat man. "This is the second time you have deliberately put out my match."

"Pardon me," said Mr. Sturgis. "It is force of habit. I am the fire commissioner."

Value of Sunshine.

If the beneficences of sunshine were more generally understood and appreciated, every house owner would have somewhere about the house a solarium or sun room. The ancient Romans knew the value of sunshine and always had solariums attached to the house or forming part of it.

THE PRESIDENT MOVES FOR PEACE

Chief Executive, as a Disinterested
Third Party, Confers With Count
Cassini on Advisability of Cessation of Hostilities.

Washington, June 3.—The president Friday struck a blow for peace in the far east. In a conference at the White House with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, he expressed the earnest hope that Russia would forthwith conclude peace with Japan. Prolongation of the war, he believes, will not result in victory for the Russian arms and can only serve to increase Japan's demands and render more difficult the drafting of a treaty of peace which the czar, as well as the mikado, can sign.

The president spoke, he said, as the friend of Russia, no less than of Japan, and on behalf not only of the Washington government, but in the interest of humanity.

Until his words have reached Tsar Nicholas and have been communicated to Emperor Nicholas in the friendly spirit in which they were uttered, their effect cannot be estimated. Soon after reaching his embassy Count Cassini began the preparation of a dispatch to his government.

Cassini Gives His Views.

Count Cassini was unable to do more than to give the president his own personal opinions on the situation. He could not see, however, that there was anything in the present situation, unfortunate as it undoubtedly was for his government, which necessitated Russia's suing for peace. As to territory, he pointed out that China and not Russia had been the loser, for even Port Arthur was held only under lease. On the sea, Russia had nothing more to lose, he said.

It was the ambassador's firm opinion that this was not "the psychological moment" in which to discuss peace with Japan. Whatever might be the ultimate decision of his government, he took the ground that Russia could lose nothing either by waiting or by continuing the war on land. There was hope yet of a victory for the Russian arms, and in any event Russia had not yet lost one foot of territory nor was the Russian frontier endangered.

Japan's Terms too Severe.

The ambassador pointed out that there was no slight official intimation from any source, as to Japan's probable terms, and that these demands as stated unofficially were "altogether impossible." If Japan's terms should prove anything like as severe as they have been reported it was the ambassador's opinion that Russia could advantageously continue the war indefinitely and eventually win a victory on land. That his government would so decide he did not wish to predict, but at last accounts the emperor was for a continuation of the war.

Thus the conversation continued for more than half an hour, being characterized throughout by frankness and friendliness. Later on when the ambassador had heard from his government, after communicating the president's views and the president's willingness to render Russia any service possible in initiating peace negotiations with Japan, he will have another talk with the president.

Consumption and the Heart.

Recent radiographic measurements show that consumptives, except those who have been accidentally infected without predisposition, do have hearts of only half the normal size and that this does not occur in other chronic diseases. The writer finds that these small hearts are very frequent in phthisis, but thinks this is often due to degenerative changes.—The Hospital.

The Adjectived Chinaman.

A Johannesburg correspondent sends a photograph of a shop front in that town bearing the inscription: "Mrs. _____, Landress. No Chinamen or Indians employed." This trade sign indicates in a flash the state of opinion in the Rand capital. It is symptomatic that the novel sign-board was ordered down by the police.
